Customer satisfaction. Your own understanding of customer satisfaction will be far enough if every one of your employees remains moved in the Dark Ages. Every employee should be made aware of your own (and your company's) responsibility to the customer. If you've been in business for a while, you've already seen your share of cases where the customer's problem was resolved, but the customer was still unhappy. The most common cause of this potentially fatal malady is employees (or owners) who have allowed themselves to become isolated from the customer's concerns. It's up to you to make certain that all of your employees understand that the ultimate goal of your combined efforts is a satisfied customer, not just a sale.

8 Don't overlook your employees as a source of ideas to improve your operation.

No one is closer to your customers and their opinions than your own employees. Acknowledgment and respect from employees. Workers who are respected by their bosses contribute to the success of the business. If you...

You treat the important

...begins the story... between the phone... in understanding the... and respect... always answered... or their time... or herself by nam... more than a few... a commercial survey... a customer on hold for... the most certain way to alienate... If you can't find the information you need within a minute or less, volunteer to call the customer back. And always, ALWAYS, call the customer back when you have promised to do so. Even if you haven't been able to find all the information you need, don't force the customer to wait for a call that never comes.

When you make a mistake, own it. Operations are... Business is...

5 Train every employee to be an important member of the Customer Satisfaction Team.

Your own understanding of the importance of customer satisfaction will be the gauge if even one of your employees remains unimpressed as being the customer's problem. The most common cause of this potentially fatal malady is employees (or here) who have allowed themselves to become isolated from your customer's concerns. It's your job to make certain that all of your employees understand the ultimate goal of your combined efforts is a satisfied customer.

Don't make a mistake, own

7 Make sure that you treat the telephone as an important business tool.

Every time you or one of your employees answers the phone, you are making a statement. Make sure that your telephone is always answered and respect the customer's time. Never allow it to ring more than three or four times. Have a customer on hold for more than a minute or two, and you've already lost the sale. And always, ALWAYS, call the customer back when you have promised to do so. Even if you haven't been able to find all the information you need, don't leave the customer to wait for a call that never comes.

8 Don't overlook your employees as a source of ideas to improve your operation.

As one is closer to your customers and their operations than your own employees, their suggestions and insights are invaluable. Encourage them to share their ideas and suggestions. They may be the source of the next big idea that will improve your operation.
